BIO

Helluva job buddy... See ya on the next one.

-Robert Rodriguez

Director Frank Miller's Sin City

Chris Warner is the unique combination of Sherman tank outer shell and warm, soft teddy bear filling. Whether it's acting, writing, directing or producing, he exudes a spirit that is laced with Dennis Leary smartassitude, yet well-tempered with an abundance of compassion. When he's not on set in front of the camera or banging away on his computer working to bring life to his next story at a local coffee shop, he can be found spending time with his wife & dogs or inspiring others to hunt their dreams.

Raised in Texas as an Army brat, order and discipline were just part of the package. That was until Chris discovered his inner-artist and the day when chaos and mayhem were born. Blessed or cursed, depending on your perspective, this powerful dichotomy has taken Chris down the path of Hollywood donning everything from the uniform of cop & soldier to the orange jumpsuit of a harden criminal.

Chris' storied career as a professional actor has span almost two decades. He is both humbled and blessed to have appeared in quite a few movies and television shows; including the Academy Award-winning No Country for Old Men, the groundbreaking Frank Miller's Sin City and the TV series Criminal Minds, Prison Break, Friday Night Lights & Justified.
